

Health Misinformation and Social Media Resources from the Panel Discussion

Deconstructing Health Messages

Five Key Questions developed by the Center for Media Literacy (CML)

Deconstructing Health Messages

This resource supports the analysis of health information using the Center for Media Literacy's Five Key Questions and links to related resources. It's available as a PDF or Prezi presentation.

World Health Organization

WHO COVID-19 Mythbusters

This page on the World Health Organization website is constantly updated with debunking materials to counter the latest misinformation regarding COVID-19.

WHO Health Alert on WhatsApp

From government leaders to health workers and family and friends, this messaging service provides the latest news and information on coronavirus including details on symptoms and how people can protect themselves.

How to Report Misinformation Online

The WHO has compiled the steps necessary to report misinformation on the most popular online platforms in order to encourage individuals to report false or misleading content online.

Equal Access Language Services LLC

Equal Access Language Services

This service specializes in interpretation, training, translation and consultation for organizations that need to communicate in various languages.

CIELO
COMUNIDADES INDIGENAS EN LIDERAZGO

Resources in Indigenous Languages

CIELO has translated COVID-19 related resources into indigenous languages from across Latin America.

Videos from The Refugee Response

Refugee Response has short videos in many languages on topics including mental health and recognizing misinformation during a pandemic.

www.migrantclinician.org

